TO BUILD A BRIDGE

OVER WABASH TRACKS ON STORM AVENUE.

OFFICIALS IN THE CITY

Did Not Stay Here Over a Half an Hour—Inspected the Local Yards.

The Wabash officials on their tour of inspection of their lines stopped at Maryville Thursday morning for a short time to inspect the local yards and other improvements that are to be made. They came here from Council Bluffs, and were met at the depot by a number of Maryville people in automobiles to take them for a short drive over the city. Having only a short time to stay here, the officials were unable to take the ride.

President F. A. Delano of the Wabash was in the party, and walked to the new Normal building to look over the matter of the opening of Storm avenue, and also Ninth street. Mr. Delano, in talking about the opening of Storm avenue, thought that the best plan would be to build a bridge over the track where the proposed road crosses the Wabash, as it would be much safer. However, he did not say much about it, and the other street opening over the tracks, but it is thought that a bridge will be built if the city should go after it.

The North Mulberry bridge site was also inspected. The material for this bridge is on the way and work will commence in a few days. The officials on the tour said that the bridge would be a good one, and that they are thinking strongly about putting in a concrete bridge.

The officials were on a special train composed of a Pullman and three private cars. They left Maryville for St. Louis, where the next stop was made, and will go from there on into St. Louis.

Carried Out Short Program.

The Christian associations of the State Normal held their regular meeting at assembly hour Thursday morning. A short program was carried out by each branch of this work.

The Y. W. C. A. extended an invitation to the Y. M. C. A. to a reception in the domestic science department at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The interest in the religious organizations of the school seems to be increasing. Several students have united with these organizations since the beginning of the term.

The candy sale which is being put on by the senior class at the Normal bids fair to be a success. It is hoped that the students will patronize the football game Saturday as liberally as they have the candy sale.

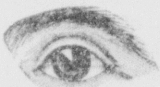

Forrest Donnell Did Not Speak.

Forrest C. Donnell of St. Louis, the young silver-tongued Republican orator who was to have spoken in Maryville Wednesday night at the court house, was sick and unable to do so. He spent the day in Maryville, but was too sick to enjoy the day with his old friends here, and left for his home on the 4:29 Burlington train. His many admirers here regretted his inability to speak, and The Democrat-Forum has missed a good chance to show how far off the track a really good young man may be.

HAS SEVERAL CALLS UNDER CONSIDERATION

Rev. W. J. Ward returned Wednesday from a two weeks' stay in Texas, in the region of San Antonio. He occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church at Devine, Texas, last Sunday, and also visited at Beville. Rev. Ward has several calls under consideration, and has not yet decided on moving to Texas.

DR. FINN

Treats eyes with glasses only. He can give you 5,000 references in Maryville and Nodaway county. Ask your neighbors about Finn's glasses that make weak eyes strong.

W. B. FINN.

TO LEAVE FOR THEIR HOME IN VIRGINIA

Judge J. B. Newman and family will leave Thursday evening for Somerset, Va., where they will live on a farm near that place. Judge Newman recently sold his residence on East Fourth street to Dr. C. D. Koch, who is to take possession next week. The Newmans only recently came back from Virginia, where they have lived since moving away from Maryville, some four years ago.

REV. LEE HARRELL CALLED FOR PASTOR

A business session at the close of prayer meeting at the First Baptist church Wednesday night it was decided to extend a call to Rev. Lee Harrell of Higginsville, Mo. to become its pastor. Rev. Harrell preached before this congregation two weeks ago. He is one of the best known pastors in Missouri and has always been eminently successful. He is a graduate of William Jewell college at Liberty, Mo., and of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary at Louisville, Ky. Mrs. Harrell is a graduate of Stephens college at Columbia, Mo. It is known that Rev. Harrell will accept the call but will not begin his pastorate here before the first of December.

AVERAGE PRICE $41 PER HEAD

F. P. Robinson's Poland-China hog sale Wednesday afternoon at his farm, north of town, was well attended, many buyers being present from out of town. Seventy head were sold, and the average price received was $41 per head.

Mrs. Lucy Shellman of Blackfoot, Idaho, who is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. G. W. Jackson of Maryville, went to Pickering Thursday to visit other relatives. Mrs. Jackson has another guest in Mrs. E. E. Shellman of Asotin, Wash., who is also her sister-in-law.

FIGURES PROVEN

WHAT THE STATE AUDITOR HAS TO SAY.

EXTRAVAGANCE OF FUND

Under Hadley's Administration May Be Verified by Referring to Bills and the House Journal.

(St. Louis Republic.)

Attempts by the Globe-Democrat to deny and to disqualify figures relating to extravagant use of public funds under the administration of Governor Hadley, as charged by State Auditor Gordon in his public speeches, are met by vigorous denials by Mr. Gordon, who says:

"I wish to say in the closing days of the conflict that, regardless of what the Globe-Democrat may say as to the figures I have used in my campaign, that they are absolutely correct in every particular. Every single figure is borne out by the records in my office. My books are open to the inspection of anyone, and I invite any committee to make a thorough investigation as to the correctness of every figure contained in this handbook in reference to every office.

"I reiterate what the campaign book shows that in the twenty months of Governor Hadley's administration, from January, 1909, to September, 1910, as compared with Governor Folk's administration from January, 1907, to September, 1908, that it cost in those twenty months $389,754.15 more to keep Republicans in office than it did Democrats.

"I have also made figures in addition to what is contained in the handbook and find that in the administration of the affairs of the four state hospitals in this state, that it cost for the same twenty months $117,000 more for salaries and support under Governor Hadley's administration than it did under Governor Folk's administration. This, added to the $389,754.15, you will see, costs the people almost $500,000 more to keep Republicans in office in Missouri for twenty months than it does Democrats.

"I prepared a bill in my office, the sole object of which was to compel tax dodgers to give in their property or their money for the purposes of taxation. I made five copies of this bill; gave one to each member of the state board of equalization. Senator Anthony, a Democrat from St. Clair county was asked to introduce the bill in the senate, which he did, and it is Senate bill No. 535. I give the numbers of these bills so that anyone may see the correctness of my statement. Senate bill No. 535 is an exact copy of the original bill. Governor Hadley selected Mr. Kies to introduce the bill in the house. It is No. 924, and if you will examine the Kies bill you will see that it is very unlike the senate bill, or the original bill. You will see in bill No. 924 that it calls for the assessment of all property, including farm lands, at 50 per cent of their actual cash value, but Mr. Kies, the man that Governor Hadley selected to introduce this bill, offered an amendment to his own bill that the 50 per cent value clause be changed to read: 'To be assessed at its true cash value,' which can be found on page 1,138 of the house journal of 1909. Mr. Kies certainly would not have offered this amendment without consulting Governor Hadley, as Governor Hadley had selected Mr. Kies to represent him in matters of taxation and revenue on the floor of the house.

"Some of the governor's followers may try to deny this statement, as well as they try to fool the people by juggling figures, and for that reason I give the numbers of the bills and the page of the house journal upon which these facts can be verified."

WAS IN MARYVILLE SIXTY YEARS AGO

H. H. Richardson of Moberly, Mo., has been spending a week in the city the guest of his son, George Richardson, and family. He returned to his home Thursday. Mr. Richardson is 86 years old and is in fine physical condition, and appears many years younger. He was a soldier of the Mexican war and has traveled extensively. He was in Maryville in 1850, and says that there were few houses in all this country around, and game was plentiful, especially deer.

Sister Mary of St. Francis hospital went to Arkoe on business Thursday morning.

DIED THURSDAY A.M.

THE DEATH OF MISS JULIA SCHUMACHER.

AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Funeral Services to Be Held Saturday Morning at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Miss Julia Schumacher, daughter of N. Schumacher, died about 6 o'clock Thursday morning, after a painful illness of two years. Her death was not unexpected by herself or her family. In fact, the young woman had herself prepared her family for her death, as she had frequently talked with them during the past few months of the approaching end of her earthly life, with the calm assurance of one who is prepared for such a change.

The funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Catholic church Saturday morning and will be conducted by Rev. Father Anselm, who had been the lifelong friend and spiritual adviser of Miss Schumacher. Several relatives and friends from a distance are expected to attend the funeral. The body will lie in state at the Schumacher home Friday.

Miss Schumacher grew to womanhood in our city, and her many social gifts won her many admiring friends. She was educated in the convent schools of Maryville and Conception, and being especially talented in music she gave considerable time and study in cultivating her musical gifts. She was a beautiful singer, and since quite a young girl had been the leading soprano in St. Mary's choir, until ill health compelled her to give it up. She was very generous in aiding musical efforts by other churches, and assisted whenever she could.

Miss Schumacher also became recognized as a very successful business woman while in the employ of the Alderman Dry Goods company, where she remained for several years until her health failed. Her obliging courtesy to all made her very popular with the trading public, and she was missed by many when she severed her relations there.

Everything possible was done to save her life. She spent several months at Rochester, Minn., under the care of the Drs. Mayo, taking treatment for a spinal trouble she suffered from for years, that was superinduced by an attack of spinal meningitis she suffered at the age of 5 years. She seemed to grow better for some time and was apparently on the way to perfect health, but her own hopes and those of her family were often deceived, and at last she gave up to her fate in sweetest submission. She had much to live for, and the loving attentions she received daily from friends in flowers, fruit, books and letters made life very happy and attractive, and she tried hard to live. Her mother passed away a little over a year ago, and this second bereavement to the family is indeed hard to bear.

Miss Schumacher is survived by her father, N. Schumacher, three sisters, Mrs. Conrad Yehle, Miss Lenore and Miss Rose Schumacher, and five brothers, John P. Schumacher of St. Joseph, Lawrence, Edward, Anselm and Frank Schumacher.

News of Society and Women's Clubs

For Mrs. Denton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Frank entertained at dinner Wednesday in honor of Mrs. H. A. Denton and little daughter, Ruth, who are visiting in Maryville. Their company included besides the honor guests, Mrs. J. R. Brink and Miss Marie Brink, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Roseberry and daughter, Esther Ardella; Mr. and Mrs. Arch Frank and daughter, Eva Margaret; Mrs. N. A. Kavanaugh and Miss Helen Dunn.

Mission Circle to Meet.

The Young Ladies' Mission Circle of the First Christian church will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. F. P. Robinson Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. H. A. Denton, who organized the circle and is now in the city, the guest of Miss Jennie Robinson.

Dinner Party.

Miss Donna Slison gave a dinner party Wednesday in honor of Miss Katherine Newman, who is to leave

Thursday evening for her home in Virginia in company with her parents. After dinner bridge was played. Miss Slison's guests were: Miss Newman, Miss Lottie Perrin and Miss Mae Corwin, Messrs. Earl C. Branigan, Edward Williams, James Todd and Paul Slison.

Baptist Missionary Society.

Mrs. G. W. Hempstead will be hostess to the Woman's Missionary society of the First Baptist church Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Domino Party.

Mrs. Jesse Miller, Mrs. J. W. Herndon and Miss Nellie Douglas entertained fifty guests at dominoes Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Miller's home. On the arrival of the guests punch was served by Mrs. Charles Belows, Mrs. Frank Garrett, Miss Georgia Condon and Miss Grace Langan. The guests were given favors of pink and white carnations at luncheon.

Surprised W. O. W. Circle.

Wednesday night the Woodmen of the World surprised the members of the Woodmen Circle, the ladies' auxiliary of that order, by coming into the hall at the hour of closing with ice cream and cake, which was immediately served, and the rest of the evening was spent at playing games. Mrs. Helen Loomis of St. Joseph, the district organizer, was present at both business and social sessions. Six new members from Arkoe were voted into the membership of the Circle. They are Dr. and Mrs. Townsend, Mrs. A. P. Bolln, Miss Margaret Bolln, Miss Nellie Lund and Mrs. C. W. Rose.

STATE COMMISSIONER WAS IN THE CITY

Dr. W. P. Cutler, state pure food commissioner, was in Maryville Thursday on his way to Janssen, Mo., where he is to speak this afternoon to a county institute meeting. While in Maryville Dr. Cutler was taken for a ride over the city by W. C. Pierce and George L. Wilfley. The party stopped at the Normal building, where they looked over the building and grounds.

A PHYSICIAN IN A SANIARIUM IN IOWA

Mrs. J. A. Dillinger of Des Moines, Ia., and her sister, Dr. Margaret Armstrong, of Colfax Springs, Ia., arrived in Maryville Wednesday night on a visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong. Mrs. Dillinger will remain two or three weeks. Dr. Armstrong has come home for a much needed rest from work and study. Since her graduation from the Drake University Medical school at Des Moines last June she has been one of the physicians in the Victoria sanitarium at Colfax Springs, a work which she took up after eight years of continued study.

Personal Mention

Mrs. Peter Maurer of Graham was in Maryville from Monday until Wednesday, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Crosby.

Mrs. James M. Enis of Clyde spent Thursday in Maryville with her sister, Mrs. T. J. Parle.

Waldo Lawrence of Green River, Wyo., is visiting in Maryville, the guest of Miss Charlotte Murrin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Murrin.

Mrs. T. A. Humbert of Barnard was in Maryville Tuesday and Wednesday as the guest of Mrs. W. A. Blagg and Mrs. G. Matter.

Miss Addie Holled, who has been employed at the Reuillard cafe, left Wednesday night to join her parents at Sheldon, Ia., where they have recently located.

Mrs. Frank Craig returned Wednesday evening from a few days' visit in Pickering with Mr. Craig's mother, Mrs. E. L. Craig, and Mrs. Margaret Williams.

Mrs. George McCaffrey and baby son, who have been spending a month past with her mother, Mrs. Ellen McCaffrey, left for their home at Lamar, Col., Thursday morning.

J. W. Farley of Farley, Platte county, Mo., was in Maryville Wednesday. Mr. Farley is a member of the Democratic state committee from the Fourth congressional district.

DIES AT AGE OF 98

MRS. A. R. HUFF PASSED AWAY NEAR WILCOX.

OLDEST IN THE COUNTY

Funeral Services Are to Be Held Friday and Burial to Take Place at Quitman.

Mrs. Isabelle Huff died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. F. Haller, near Wilcox, after a few weeks' sickness. Mrs. Huff was 98 years old and has been making her home with her daughter for the past four months.

Mrs. Huff was born near Lynchburg, Va., in 1812, and moved from there to Indiana. From Indiana they moved to Knoxville, Ia., where they lived until 1871, when they came to Nodaway county and moved on a farm near Quitman.

Her husband died in 1884, and since that time Mrs. Huff made her home with her grandson, W. E. Lynn, at St. Joseph, and about four months ago came to Wilcox to visit her daughter, Mrs. Haller, where she was taken sick.

Four daughters and one son survive, who are: Mrs. Marion Huff of San Francisco, Mrs. O. K. Dike of Chicago, Mrs. John A. Logan of Quitman and Mrs. Haller of Wilcox, and William P. Huff of Yates, Okla. Mrs. John Porter of this city is a granddaughter of Mrs. Huff and left Thursday morning for Wilcox to attend the funeral services, which are to be held Friday morning. Burial will take place at Quitman.

WILL LEAVE FOR FLORIDA NEXT WEEK

Mrs. Margaret Munn and daughters, Misses Eliza and Sarah Munn, and Mrs. Munn's brother-in-law, James Munn; Mrs. W. H. Davenport and little daughter, Edna, and Mr. Davenport's mother, Mrs. Davenport of Paw Paw, Mich., and Lycurgus Miller expect to leave next Wednesday for St. Petersburg, Fla., where all expect to make their home. Mrs. Munn, it will be remembered, recently sold her twenty-acre tract in West Maryville, known now as "Lynahurt." She shipped her household goods Wednesday. Her son, David Munn, and family, will probably follow later.

Mrs. Davenport's husband has been at St. Petersburg for two months getting ready for the arrival of his family, which was delayed by the serious illness of their little daughter who is just recovering from pneumonia. Mr. Miller's son, D. Ward Miller, has lived in St. Petersburg for several years, and he will make his home with them. Mr. Miller and his family spent the summer in Maryville and were accompanied home by Mrs. Miller's mother, Mrs. S. T. Kennedy. So with the arrival of these Maryville people there will be quite a colony at St. Petersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Pattison of Arkoe were Maryville business visitors Wednesday.

ANOTHER REPUBLICAN.

(St. Louis Republic.)

The St. Louis Republic, the leading Democratic newspaper of this state, in an editorial following the August primaries, complimented my election and complimented me myself upon giving the people of St. Louis an honest election. Governor Hadley at Maryville. "The St. Louis Republic never did anything of the sort."

The primaries referred to having passed without a single arrest in this city, the Republic, on August 4, congratulated the community that, in the evolution toward better things in St. Louis, this result had been brought about. While demonstrations of force on the part of the police were not conspicuously associated with the absence of disorder in the relation of cause and effect, the Republic also congratulated the police department on its energies and gave especial recognition to the labor of the "man on the beat."

The Republic hopes the August primary was at least as honest as the expressions at the polls that have recently preceded it, but this paper printed no opinion on the subject, honest elections being the rule in St. Louis. If never congratulated Governor H. S. Hadley on giving St. Louis an honest election. H. S. Hadley never gave St. Louis any. It never offered any such congratulations to any election commissioner appointed by him for having rendered the primary an honest one. Honest elections here preceded the term of service of any of his appointees. Governor Hadley had just about as much to do with giving honest elections to St. Louis as any other resident who doesn't live in St. Louis, and no more.

But isn't the statement quoted, which is absolutely without any foundation whatever in fact, a typical Hadleyism? Just such misstatements as this, together with a persistency in self-praise which indicates remarkable and abnormal development of the ego, make up the greater portion of all his campaign speeches.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

An Unusually Representative Body of Citizens Give Strong Reasons Why the Amendment Providing for Its Support Should Be Adopted.

Recognizing the importance of our state university in our public school system and the importance of placing its support upon a more permanent and dependable basis, the undersigned, regardless of differing political opinions, join in this appeal to the voters to adopt the proposed amendment to the constitution providing for the support of the university, the college of agriculture and the school of mines.

The university is practically a free school. It is a poor boy's school. A large majority of the students are from families of moderate means and about 40 per cent are dependent upon their own work to pay their expenses.

The attendance of students has increased within the past ten years 157 per cent, more than twenty-six times the rate of increase in population in the state. The present number of students is approximately 3,000, and there is no room for more. The buildings are over-crowded and the students are now being turned away. We submit that Missouri should make adequate provision for the education of its youth, the Missouri boys and girls should not have to go outside of this state to secure the best education that they may desire.

The university is doing great service in all its departments. Several departments, however, are deserving of special mention. The teachers' college has trained more than 2,000 teachers during the past six years, who are doing efficient service as teachers in the public school of the state. The agriculture college, by a system of scientific experimentation has increased the yield of wheat, corn, grasses, vegetables and fruits in many sections of the state. The value of this department in its experimental work cannot be estimated in dollars and cents. In the discovery of serum for the prevention of hog cholera, the college has saved the farmers of the state a half million dollars during the last year, which is more than the agricultural college has cost since it was established, and more than the university has cost the people of the state during any one year.

The graduates of the school of mines have effectively assisted in the development of the mineral resources of the state, and although Missouri produces more lead and zinc than all the rest of the states combined and more than any country in the world, it still has vast stores of mineral wealth to be developed under the direction of the graduates of this department. The commercial value of the university as an investment cannot be questioned.

We believe that the present proposed amendment should be adopted because it would provide a certain income for all departments of the university; because it would take the university out of the competition with the normal schools and the eleemosynary institutions, all of which have to be provided for out of the general revenue of the state; because it will mean the abandonment of the collateral inheritance tax as the means of support for the university.

The universities of most of the states have such a permanent basis of support, as, for example, Nebraska levies a separate tax of ten cents on the hundred dollars for the support of their state university, more than three times the amount provided for in amendment No. 11; and Colorado levies six cents on the hundred dollars, just double the amount provided for in amendment No. 11. The per capita cost of the State university of Nebraska is sixty cents, of Kansas is fifty-seven cents, of Iowa is fifty-one cents, of Illinois is thirty-five cents, while it is only twenty cents in Missouri.

J. ARTHUR WRAY

"He's a natural born good fellow," "You know thoroughly you know J. Arthur Wray the better you like him. He will put an immense vote where he is best known, and when he is elected he will be, as a Democrat who has known him all his life said, "Just the same J. Arthur."

That he is the same kind of a fellow today is proved by his assertion that he is more anxious to finish the campaign as clean as he went into it than he is to win. His life motto has been and is the good old proverb, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favor rather than silver and gold."

J. Arthur Wray has won his way to the hearts of all classes by his unassuming, cheery friendliness and lifelong cleanness of living, void of suspicion.

He is the logical candidate of right thinking people regardless of party. His theory is that one who can be trusted to fill public office honestly should get into that office HONESTLY. "If a man also strive for mastery yet he is not crowned except he strive lawfully."

The University of Missouri cannot hope to keep the best and most efficient teachers and officers unless it is placed upon such a permanent basis as will enable it to compete with the institutions of neighboring commonwealths. The income of the university under the proposed amendment could not be greater than it is at present from the biennial legislative appropriation, but it would be fixed and certain, and definite plans based upon a definite knowledge of the resources could be made for the conduct and improvement of the institution.

We call attention to the fact that both the political parties have planks in their platforms urging the adoption of this provision for permanent support of the university and we believe that this amendment deserves the support of all citizens. We appeal therefore to every voter to vote yes and scratch no on amendment No. 11, the last amendment upon the ballot.

DEMOCRATIC STATE NOMINEES.

Judge Supreme Court—James Britton Gantt Clinton.
Henry Carroll Timmonds, Kansas City.
State Superintendent Public Schools—Howard A. Gass, Jefferson City.
Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner—Thomas M. Bradbury, Jefferson City.
The Democracy of Missouri never presented an abler cleaner, stronger ticket to the people for their support than it has named this year. Each of the candidates named above is a man of commanding ability and the highest character. Judge Gantt and Prof. Gass have been tried and found to be faithful, efficient public servants. Judge Timmonds and Tom Bradbury are also worthy of your support. The thing to do is to elect each of them by an old time Democratic majority.

HOPKINS.

Mrs. Boyd Boyer spent Monday evening in Maryville with friends.

Mrs. Grace Rickard of St. Joseph was in Hopkins this week the guest of E. C. Wolfers, Jr., and family.

Frank Wible has a good position with the John S. Brittain Dry Goods Company of St. Joseph. Another Hopkins boy getting to the front.

The ladies of the Christian church are planning to serve a big dinner Thanksgiving day.

The next number on the entertainment course will be the noted lecturer Henry Clark, November 9.

Miss Hazel Burks of Pickering won first place in the declamatory contest at Maryville. Miss Cloe Kime of Hopkins won last year. Cheer up, Marytown, it's coming down the line. Here's hoping you will be "it" next year.

Mrs. J. T. Disney was quite seriously injured by falling while crossing the street in front of her home.

A number of Hopkins people attended the lecture delivered by Rev. Claude Witte at Good Hope last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butts and Miss Kennie returned Monday evening from a visit with Mrs. Butts' sister, Mrs. Jennie Keever, at Prescott, Ia.

Mrs. J. E. Kysar of Kearney, Neb., is visiting her father, William Bram, and sister, Miss Nell Bram.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes Lytle arrived Monday night from Portland, Ore., thus surprising their numerous friends and relatives in and around Hopkins.

Misses Bess Armstrong, Flora and Sylvia Statesman and Blanch Mason, all prominent teachers from east of town, went to Maryville to the teachers' institute, returning home Saturday night.

The many friends of Mrs. Bess Goodson will be glad to know she has taken up the work at the Owl pharmacy, and hereafter may be found behind the counter.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Grimes entertained last Thursday night complimentary to their guest, Miss Leola Gates from Illinois, who is visiting them.

Rev. and Mrs. Eri Edmonds returned last week from a visit with their daughter, Mrs. H. C. Goodson, at Colorado Springs. Mr. and Mrs. Edmonds report a delightful visit and Colorado a good place to visit, but when it comes to living, they would take good Missouri every time. Dr. Goodson, who it will be remembered, has a position at the Woodman sanatorium, near Colorado Springs, has almost entirely recovered his health and is very enthusiastic over the climate and the work being done by the Woodmen at that place.

Frank Melick returned Tuesday from an extended pleasure and business trip to New York and Philadelphia. He had been gone so long that Hopkins really seemed slow to him. Strange!

Gade Rush was called to Canon City, Texas, last week by the death of his father, who was over 70 years of age.

John Johnson and Miss Ethel Elmer returned Wednesday noon from a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maner at Kansas City.

Fred B. Shirley left Tuesday for his home at Montrose, Col., after a short visit with friends in Hopkins.

Dr. Bushnell of Kansas City gave a very forceful lecture on the temperance question at the Presbyterian church last Tuesday night. Although the night was stormy a good crowd was out to hear him, and seemed to thoroughly enjoy the talk, especially the illustration of the six-pound roast and fifteen cents worth of liver.

Last Thursday night at the M. E. church the Szirkosky entertainers gave an extremely good entertainment along the same lines. As an impersonator and reader Mr. Szirkosky is very good and Mrs. Szirkosky, as an artist, is hard to beat. We understand one of her cartoons, that of the saloon-keeper, will be displayed in one of the windows downtown on election day. Watch for it.

E. C. Wolfers, Sr., and family went to Parnell last Sunday for a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Stewart of that place. About a mile out of Parnell, on the return trip, owing to some trouble with a tire, the auto had to be left, and Mr. Wolfers secured a team and drove his family home. The Sunday before this the E. C. Wolfers, Jr., auto was hung up between here and Pickering, and Ed had to telephone to Jeffries to come and bring the folks home at 10 o'clock at night. We suppose this is what would be called the funny side of autoing—funny to the fellow who can't afford to own an auto.

Mrs. E. J. Appleton, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Arch Stewart, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Wes Lytle are visiting Mrs. A. J. Thurston at Lenox, Ia. From Lenox Mrs. Stewart will return to her home at Clinton, Ia. Mrs. Lytle will remain at Lenox for a two weeks' visit. Mrs. Appleton will return to Hopkins Friday evening.

Mr. Sam Chaney, who sold his blacksmith shop to French & Laipple, plans to leave with his wife for an extended visit with Mrs. Chaney's sister, Mrs. Noble McMaster, in Alabama.

One of the proudest girls in Nodaway county last Saturday night was Miss Lulu Russell (and her mother wasn't much behind her) when she came home from Maryville with $10 in gold as a prize for the best white cake. This is certainly an honor for a girl of Lulu's age and the funny part of it is her father had promised to give her $5 if she got the ten, so now the little lady has $15 for her cake. That looks like a get rich quick scheme.

Miss Irene Bailey gave a very interesting talk on domestic science at the Presbyterian church Monday afternoon. Miss Bailey's principal subject was the cooking of meats and she also gave some good advice on the buying of meats and the using of the cheaper cuts. While we think the average housewife knew most everything that was told them, still we think it does one good to have some one else tell us these things, even if we know it ever so well. We have wondered since how many of the good cooks there agreed with her when she said a roast should not be covered when put into the oven. We thought possibly she had made a mistake and followed her to the depot to ask her but she said no, she did not make a mistake. This is the way: Take a nice roast of six or eight pounds, salt and pepper, place in pan without lid, and put into hot oven. In a short time, or when meat is nicely seared, cool oven some and let roast until done. Some of you farmers' wives who have rich, juicy six or eight-pound roasts, try it and let us know what luck you have.

Governor Hadley was in town last Saturday, and if you all weren't such (you know) Democrats I'd like to tell you what he said. As it is I'll just say he had a good crowd at 9:30 in the morning. Lots of ladies, too. And you know it takes a pretty strong attraction to get the women away from home at 9:30 Saturday morning. He made a very good appearance, said he was a farmer, but we think by his looks he might be either a preacher or a school teacher. Of course, he looks like a Republican, and even if he didn't we would know he was one because Cal Pierce and Curtis Wray were with him. Any way, he is our governor, and Hopkins would honor any man, irrespective of politics, who was at the head of this great state of ours.

H. J. SCHAUD.

Mrs. J. D. Newton and little son, Maurice, of St. Joseph, who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Thornhill, returned to their home Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baker of Barnard were in Maryville on business Wednesday.

Mrs. M. V. Baker and Mrs. J. Wohlford of Barnard were in Maryville Tuesday and Wednesday, the guests of their niece, Mrs. D. C. Wilson.

CHAPTER II

IT had been a forlorn hope at best, this attempt of his to escape Kellogg—Duncan acknowledged it when, his packing rudely finished, he started for the door. Robbins reluctantly surrendering the suit case after exhausting his repertoire of devices to delay the young man. But at that instant the elevator gate clashed in the outer corridor and Kellogg's key rattled in the lock, to an accompanying confusion of voices, all masculine and all very cheerful.

Duncan sighed and motioned Robbins away with his luggage. "No hope now," he told himself. "But—O Lord!"

Incontinently there burst into the room four men—Jim Long, Larry Miller, another whom Duncan did not immediately recognize and Kellogg himself—bringing with them an atmosphere breezy with jubilation. Before he knew it Duncan was boisterously overwhelmed. He got his breath to find Kellogg pumping his hand.

"Nat," he was saying, "you're the only other man on earth I was wishing could be with me tonight! Now my happiness is complete. Gad, this is lucky!"

"You think so?" countered Duncan, forcing a smile. "Hello, you boys!" He gave a hand to Long and Miller. "How're you all?" He warmed to their friendly faces and unforgotten welcome. "My, but it's good to see you!" There was relief in the fact that Kellogg, after a single glance, forbore to question his return; he was to be counted upon for tact, was Kellogg. Now he struggled surprise by turning to the fourth member of the party.

"Nat," he said, "I want you to meet Mr. Bartlett. Mr. Bartlett, Mr. Duncan."

A wholesome smile dawned on Duncan's face as he encountered the blank blue stare of a young man whose very smooth and very bright red face was admirably set off by semi-evening dress. "Great Scott!" he cried, warmly pressing the lackadaisical hand that drifted into his. "Willy Bartlett—after all these years?"

A sudden animation replaced the vacuous stare of the blue eyes. "Duncan," he stammered, "I say, this is ripplin'!"

"As bad as that?" Duncan essayed an accent almost English and nodded his appreciation of it, something which Bartlett missed completely.

He was very young, a very great deal younger, Duncan thought, than when they had been classmates, what time Duncan shared his rooms with Kellogg, very much younger and suffering exquisitely from oversophistication. His drawl barely escaped being inimitable. His air did not escape it. "Smitten with my old trouble," Duncan appraised him—"too much money. Heaven knows I hope he never recovers!"

As for Willy, he was momentarily more nearly human than he had seemed from the moment of his first appearance. "You know," he blurted, "this is simply extraordinary. I say you chaps, Duncan and I haven't met for years, not since he graduated. We belong to the same frat, you know, and had a jolly time of it, if he was an upper class man. No side about him at all, y' know, absolutely none whatever. Whenever I had to go out on a spree I'd always get Nat to show me round."

"I was pretty good at that," Duncan admitted, a trifle ruefully.

But Willy rattled on heedless. "He knew more pretty gels, y' know. I say, old chap, d'you know as many now?"

Duncan shook his head. "The list has shrunk. I'm a changed man, Willy."

"Ow, I say, you're chaw'n." Willy argued incredulously. "I don't believe that, y' know, hardly. I say, you remember the night you showed me how to play faro bank?"

"I'll never forget it," Duncan told him gravely. "And I remember what a plug we thought my roommate was because he wouldn't come with us. He nodded significantly toward the amused Kellogg.

"Not him?" cried Willy, expostulant. "Not really? Why, it can't be!"

"Fact," Duncan assured him. "He was working his way through college, you see, whereas I was working my way through my allowance and then some. That's why you never met him. Willy, he worked and got the habit. We loafed with the same result. That's why he's useful and you're ornamental and I'm"—He broke off in surprise. "Hello," he said as Robbins offered a tray to the three in which were slim stemmed glasses filled with a pale yellow effervescent liquid. "Where the blond waters of exclamation, please?" he inquired, accepting a glass.

From across the room Larry Miller's voice sounded. "Are you ready, gentlemen? We'll drink to him first, and then he can drink to his royal little self. To the boy who's getting on in the world. To the junior member of L. J. Bartlett & Co."

Long applauded loudly. "Hear, hear!" and even Willy Bartlett chimed in with an unemotional, "Good work." Mechanically Duncan downed the toast. Kellogg was the only man not drinking it, and from that the meaning was easily to be inferred. With a stride Duncan caught his hand and crushed it in his own.

"Harry," he said a little huskily, "I can't tell you how glad I am. It's the best news I've had in years."

Kellogg's responsive pressure was answer enough. "It makes it doubly worth while to win out and have you all so glad," he said.

"So you've taken him into the firm, eh?" Duncan inquired of Bartlett.

The blue eyes widened steadily. "The governor has. I'm not in the business y' know. Never had the slightest turn for it, what?" Willy set aside his glass. "I say I must be moving. No I can't stop. Kellogg, really, I was dressin' at the club and Larry told me about it, so I just dropped round to tell you how jolly glad I am."

"Your father hadn't told you then?"

"Who, the governor? Willy looked unutterably bored. "Why, he gave up tryin' to talk business with me long ago. I can't get interested in it, you my word. Of course I knew he thought the deuce and all of you, but I hadn't an idea they were going to take you into the firm. What?"

Long and Miller interrupted, proposing adieus which Kellogg vainly contended.

"Why, you're only just here"—he expostulated.

"Can't help it, old chap," Willy assured him earnestly. "I must go, anyway. I've a dinner engagement."

"You'll be late, won't you?"

"Doesn't matter in the least. I'm always late. Night, Kellogg. Congratulations again."

"We just dropped round to take off our hats to you," Long continued, pumping Kellogg's hand.

"And tell you what a good fellow we think you are," added Miller, following suit.

"You don't know how good you make me feel," Kellogg told them.

Under cover of this diversion Duncan was making one last effort to slip away, but before he could gather together his impedimenta and get to the door Willy Bartlett intercepted him.

"I say, Duncan—"

"Oh, rats!" said Duncan beneath his breath. He paused ungraciously enough.

"We've got to see a bit of one another, now we've met again, y' know. Wish you'd look me up. Half Moon club 'll get me most any time. We'll have to arrange to make a regular old fashioned night of it, just for memory's sake."

Duncan nodded, edging past him. "I've memories enough," he said.

"Right on! Any reason at all, y' know, just so we have the night."

"Good enough," assented Duncan vaguely. He suffered his hand to be wrung with warmth. "I'll not forget. Good night." Then he pulled up and groaned, for Willy's insistence had frustrated his design. Kellogg had suddenly become alive to his attitude and hailed him over the heads of Long and Miller.

"Nat, I say! Where the devil are you going?"

"Over to the hotel," said Duncan. "The deuce you are! What hotel?"

"The one I'm stopping at."

"Not on your life. You're not going just yet. I haven't had half a chance to talk to you. Robbins, take Mr. Duncan's things."

Duncan, set upon by Robbins, who had been hovering round for just that purpose, lifted his shoulders in resignation, turning back into the room as Miller and Long said good night to him and left at Bartlett's heels, and smiled away in semi-humorous deprecation of the way in which he let Kellogg outmaneuver him. When it came to that it was hard to refuse Kellogg anything; he had that way with him, especially if one liked him. And how could any one help liking him?

Kellogg had him now, holding him fast by either shoulder, at arm's length, and shaking a reproving head at his friend. "You big duffer!" he said. "Did you think for a minute I'd let you throw me down like that? Have you dined?"

At this suggestion Duncan stiffened and fell back. "No, but—"

Kellogg swept the ground from under his feet. "Robbins," he told the man, "order in dinner for two from the club, and tell 'em to hurry it up."

"Yes, sir," said Robbins, and flew to obey before Duncan could get a chance to countermand his part in the order.

"And now," continued Kellogg, "we've got the whole evening before us in which to chin. Sit down." He led Duncan to an armchair and gently but firmly plumped him into his capacious depths. "We'll have a snug little dinner here and what do you say to taking in a show afterward?"

"I say no."

"You darsent, my boy. This is the night we celebrate. I'm feeling pretty good tonight."

"You ought to, Harry." Duncan struggled to rouse himself to share in the spirit of gratulation with which Kellogg was bubbling. "I'm mighty glad, old man. It's a great step up for you."

"It's all of that. You could have knocked me over with a feather when Bartlett sprang it on me this morning. Of course, I was expecting something, a boost in salary, or something like that. Bartlett knew that other houses in the street had made me offers. I've been pretty lucky of late and pulled off one or two rather big deals, but a partnership with L. J. Bartlett—Think of it, Nat!"

"I'm thinking of it, and it's great." "It'll keep me mighty busy," Kellogg blundered blindly on. "It means a lot of extra work, but you know I like to work."

"That's right, you do," agreed Duncan dreamily. "It's queer to me. It must be a great thing to like to work."

"You bet it's a great thing. Why, I couldn't exist if I couldn't work. You remember that time I laid off for a month in the country for my health's sake? I'll never forget it—hanging round all the time with my hands empty—every one else with something to do. I wouldn't go through with it again for a fortune. Never felt so useless and in the way."

"But," interrupted Duncan, knitting his brows as he grappled with this problem, "you were independent, weren't you? You had money—could you pay your board?"

"Of course. Nevertheless I felt in the way."

"That's funny."

"It's straight."

"I know it is. It wouldn't be you if you didn't love work. It wouldn't be me if I did. Look here, Harry. Suppose you didn't have any money and couldn't pay your board and had nothing to do. How'd you feel in that case?"

"I don't know. Anyhow that's rot!"

"No, it isn't rot. I'm trying to make you understand how I feel when—when it's that way with me, as it generally is." He raised one hand and let it fall with a gesture of despondency so eloquent that it roused Kellogg out of his own preoccupation.

"Why, Nat!" he cried, genuinely sympathetic. "I've been so taken up with myself that I forgot. I hadn't looked for you till tomorrow."

"You knew, then?"

"I met Atwater at lunch today. He told me. Said he was sorry, but—"

"Yes, everybody is always sorry, but—"

Kellogg let his hand fall on Duncan's shoulder. "I'm sorry, too, old man. But don't lose heart. I know it's pretty tough on a fellow."

"The toughest part of it is that you got the job for me, and I had to fall down."

"Don't think of that. It's not your fault."

"You're the only man who believes that, Harry."

"Buck up. I'll stumble across some better opening for you before long, and—"

"Stop right there. I'm through!" "Don't talk that way, Nat. I'll get you in right somewhere."

"You're the best hearted man alive, Harry, but I'll see you blasted first."

"Wait," Kellogg demanded his attention. "Here's this man Burnham. You don't know him, but he's as keen as they make 'em. He's on the track of some wonderful scheme for making illuminating gas from crude oil. If it goes through, if the invention's really practicable, it's bound to work a revolution. He's down in Washington now—left this afternoon to look up the patents. Now, he needs me to get the ear of the Standard Oil people, and I'll get you in there."

"What right 've you got to do that?" demanded Duncan. "What the dickens do I know about illuminating gas or crude oil? Burnham'd never thank you for the likes o' me."

"But, thunder, you can learn. All you need—"

"Now, see here, Harry!" Duncan gave him pause with a manner not to be denied. "Once and for all time understand I'm through having you recommend an incompetent just because we're friends."

"But, Harry—"

"And I'm through lying on you while I'm out of a job. That's final!" "But, man, listen to me—when we were at college—"

"That was another matter."

"How many times did you pay the room rent when I was strapped? How many times did your money pull me through when I'd have had to quit and forfeit my degree because I couldn't earn enough to keep on?"

"That's different. You earned enough finally to square up. You don't owe me anything."

"I owe you the gratitude for the friendly hand that put me in the way of earning that kept me going when the going was rank. Besides, the conditions are just reversed now; you'll do just as I did—make good in the world and, when it's convenient, to me. As for living here, you're perfectly welcome."

"I know it—and more," Duncan assented a little wearily. "Don't think I don't appreciate all you've done for me. But I know—and you must understand that I can't keep on living on you—and I won't."

For once baffled, Kellogg stared at him in consternation. Duncan met his gaze steadily, strong in the sincerity of his attitude. At length Kellogg surrendered, accepting defeat. "Well!" He shrugged uncomfortably. "If you insist."

"I do."

"Then that's settled."

"Yes, that's settled."

"Dinner," said Robbins from the doorway, "is served."

(To be continued.)

An up-country Republican newspaper has the audacity to suggest: "Vote the Republican ticket on the 8th. It will be a vote for progress and prosperity." Yes, "progress" on the part of the masses to the poorhouse, and "prosperity" for the plundering trusts. Even Republicans are tired of that kind of progress and prosperity, and that is the reason so many of the intelligent amongst them are this year going to vote the Democratic ticket.

That was a pretty severe jolt a trolley car gave Senator Aldrich in New York City the other evening, but it was nothing to the jolt the Democrats are going to give him on November 8.

There has not been a Presidential campaign in this country in 50 years more important to the masses than is the present campaign, although an "off" one. The outcome is of vital interest to every man, woman and child. A Republican victory means higher prices and an impoverishment of the people. A Democratic victory means the breaking of the trust chains, an early revision of the tariff in the interests of the many, against the favored few, and peace, happiness and prosperity. The voter who fails to do his duty this year is an enemy to society and an undesirable citizen. Let every Democrat be on hand bright and early on election day, and not only cast his vote, but to see to it personally that every friend, acquaintance and neighbor does likewise. This is our last appeal.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—eases blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruse your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

W. T. JACKSON'S STATEMENT

To the Citizens of Nodaway County:

As I am a candidate on the Democratic ticket for the office of Recorder of Deeds of Nodaway county, and the election for that office is to be held on next Tuesday, I desire to make the following statement to the voters of Nodaway county:

I was born in Nodaway county on the 30th day of January, 1860, and have resided continuously in Nodaway county to this date. During all these years I have been occupied in the business of farming and stock raising, and was elected and served as Presiding Judge of the County Court from 1902 to 1906.

I desire to say to the public that, if elected to this office, I shall treat every citizen of the county who has business in the office with the utmost courtesy and will devote my whole time and attention to its duties. If elected, such deputies as are necessary shall be persons of highest moral character and shall be required to meet every responsibility of the office and to treat its patrons with the utmost respect.

It having been generally reported that I have already promised the deputyship to certain parties in the event of my election, I take this opportunity of denying that report absolutely.

In conclusion, I appeal to the public to make a careful inquiry into my life and personal habits during all the years I have resided in your midst, and if you find I am worthy of your favorable consideration, I will greatly appreciate your support and votes on election day. Respectfully,

W. T. JACKSON

Statement by J. R. Smith.

To the Voters of the South District of the County Court.

It is unpleasant enough at any time to submit to the surgeon's knife, but when it comes in the midst of a campaign a candidate for office finds it doubly hard.

Because of an occurrence of this kind I have been unable to make a canvass of this district in the interest of my candidacy for judge of the South district on the Republican ticket, and while I am now practically recovered from the effects of the operation and feel as good as new my physician says I shall not do any campaigning for two weeks yet. That will be too late to do any good for this election, so I take this method of addressing the voters.

I have lived in Nodaway county practically all my life and am familiar with the needs of the entire county, and particularly with the needs of the South district. For several years I lived in the vicinity of Skidmore, moving from there to the Rockford district, where I lived until six years ago, when I moved to my present farm near Barnard.

During all my life I have been interested in the welfare of the county, and, if you see fit to elect me to represent you on the county court, I give you my assurance that I will use every endeavor to give you good, conscientious, intelligent service.

An Open Letter.

To the Voters of Nodaway County:

You would surely agree that I am a candidate for the position of the office of Probate Judge.

I was educated as a straight-out Republican, and as such, believe in the principle of giving every man, woman and child a "square deal." I promised the people that if elected, it should be the highest aim of my life to conduct the business of this office in such a manner, that any person voting for me, should not have a just cause for regretting his action. I have done my best to keep that promise, and am now standing squarely on the record I have made. The books of this office are open for inspection and my record is before the people and you have the right to compare them with those of my predecessors.

I have done business with a large number of people in the county, and upon their verdict am now willing to stand or fall.

If I have been true to the trust reposed in me, and the people desire the continuance of the business of this office as to the past term, assisted by four years' experience, I most earnestly solicit your support at the polls on November 8th.

Notwithstanding the cry of inability and disability that was raised against me at the last election, you took me on faith, and hoping that my conduct has been such that your faith has been turned to knowledge, and that you will continue your confidence in me by permitting me to serve you another term, I remain,

Yours Truly,

To the Voters of the Fourth Judicial Circuit:

There seems to be some misapprehension in the minds of some people as to results in case there should be a change in a personnel in the office of circuit judge.

I want to set out briefly my position in the matter. I have as high a regard as any man for the dignity and importance of the office, and I have as high a regard for the oath of office that I shall take if elected. No man is infallible, no man ever sat as judge on the circuit bench but what made mistakes and no man ever will, and should I be elected to that office the same supreme and appellate courts that have corrected the mistakes of other circuit judges, will correct my mistakes as they always have done in the past for others. I graduated at the National University Law School in Washington, D. C., in the year 1887, and upon continuing my studies in the year 1888, received from the same institution the degree of Master of Laws. I have had twenty years' practice in my profession, several of which immediately before coming to Nodaway county, were at Grant City, in Worth county where in the year of 1902 on account of the illness of Judge Craig I was unanimously chosen by the members of the bar, to hold the April term of court at that place. As to the performance of the duties as judge, of that term, the Grant City Star (Republican) said: "W. H. Crawford made an impartial judge and displayed a fine judicial knowledge of the law." The Worth County Times (Democrat) said: "W. H. Crawford sat as judge at the circuit court. He deserves praise for faithful performance of duty under trying circumstances. He was impartial and treated litigants with all the official courtesy they were entitled to under the law. More than that no one should ask an official."

I ask of the voters of this circuit a careful consideration of my claim for election to said office, and promise if elected, a faithful performance of the duties of said office to the best of my ability. WILLIAM H. CRAWFORD.

A Letter from R. R. Staples.

To the Voters:

Much as I would like to it will be impossible for me to see all the voters in Nodaway county prior to election. To all however, I pledge anew my loyalty to the county, her people and her institutions. I am not looking for an easy berth, but a place where I can best serve.

If elected representative, my services are at the command of every citizen. The Normal school and a proper appropriation for its upbuilding and development shall be my earnest charge. I yield to no man in my appreciation of the importance of that institution and my desire for its welfare.

I had thought that dirty politics, mud-slinging, slander and abuse belonged to the days gone by, but it seems there are yet those who find it a pleasant pastime. I have lived in this vicinity nearly a half century and believe that my neighbors will bear testimony that my life has been clean. Other than this I make no reply to the villainous traducers, believing there still exists in the bosom of every man a dislike for disreputable methods and that those who employ them will pay the penalty for their folly. Respectfully,

R. R. STAPLES.

Quality vs. Price

In buying coal you should use the same judgment that you would in buying provisions or clothing. Nothing but the BEST should be good enough for YOU.

We have a full line of the best grades of Illinois, Iowa and Wyoming Coal on hand, and would be pleased to have you give us a trial order.

All Coal weighed over city scales.

We buy Cream Butter Fat is 28c per pound.
